

ENG PS 11

Directions (1 to 3) : A set of five statements are given below in a sequence that forms a coherent paragraph. Read the set of statements and answer the questions that follow

- I. You've set yourself a goal for the week, and all you have to do is get started.
 - II. However, just when you think you're ready to dig into the task, something else catches your attention.
 - III. Perhaps it's an overflowing email inbox with tantalizing promotions, or some extra but unnecessary cleaning up you start to do around the house.
 - IV. As the hours go by, and then a couple of days, that goal for the week recedes further into the distance.
 - V. Unfortunately, this means you'll have to rush to get it done, or end up being a few days late when you do finally finish it.
1. Which of the following statements can successfully replace Statement V?
 - (a) This measure of self-determination' was important because procrastinators would presumably be more likely to procrastinate when they were fulfilling duties assigned to them by others rather than engaging in tasks they felt were important to them personally.
 - (b) If you procrastinate, according to this view, you're guaranteeing that you'll fail which you perversely wish to do if you believe that you're fundamentally flawed.
 - (c) If you find yourself stalling like this on a regular basis, you may think that becoming a punctual person is beyond your ability.
 - (d) In other words, to understand the procrastinators in life, you have to understand their values.
 - (e) Would people who score high on a procrastination scale also value their own personal well-being (enjoying their free time) more than achievement (getting things done)?
 2. Which of the following statements can fit between Statements IV and V?
 - (a) Everyone puts things off until the last minute sometimes, but procrastinators chronically avoid difficult tasks and deliberately look for distractions.
 - (b) An easy way to come up with a reinforcing consequence is to think about the activities that tend to distract you from your obligations.
 - (c) Perfectionists are often procrastinators. It is psychologically more acceptable to never tackle a task than to face the possibility of falling short on performance.
 - (d) To use consequences to your advantage, think about how you can reinforce your procrastinated behaviour frequently.
 - (e) People who struggle with procrastination may spend hours distracting themselves instead of addressing obligations that require time and effort.

3. Which of the following statements will logically follow Statement V
 - (a) New research on the motivation behind procrastination can help you get out of this rut and see your delay tactics in a different light.
 - (b) Procrastination in and of itself, isn't an irrational behaviour nor, returning to the psychodynamic interpretation, does it reflect neurotic self-defeating tendencies.
 - (c) If you, or important people in your life, fit the standard definition of procrastination, it is important to take this broader approach to understanding the role of values as influences on the way people expend their energies.
 - (d) Instead, it is more effective to promote what they call 'motivational competence' so that people can choose and set goals for themselves that are in keeping with their own inner motives and values.
 - (e) Many of these problems can be tackled with behavioural strategies that optimize the connection between the environment and behaviour.

Directions (4 to 8) : Each statement has a part missing. Choose the best option from those given below the statement to make up the missing part.

4. In India, the fruits of democracy, in the first three decades of independence, were almost exclusively reaped by the traditional elites, in pre independent India's hierarchical society.
 - (a) no thanks to the social and cultural capital they accumulated by virtue of their superior status
 - (b) thanks to the social and cultural capital, they have accumulated by virtue of their superior status.
 - (c) no thanks to the social and cultural capital they had accumulated by virtue of their superior status
 - (d) thanks to the social and cultural capital they had accumulated by virtue of their superior status
5. A merger between Air India and Indian Airlines would enable them
 - (a) to not only manage operations better but also reduce costs by pooling resources and avoiding duplication
 - (b) not only to manage operations better but reduce costs also by pooling resources and avoiding duplication
 - (c) to better manage not only resources but also reduce costs by pooling of resources and avoiding duplication
 - (d) not only to better manage operations but also reduce costs of pooling resources and avoiding duplications
6. Though the recommendation that universities work on research projects with CSIR laboratories and reputed institutions is well intended, collaborative research programmes
 - (a) will not materialize till such time the universities are to develop strong areas of expertise and specialization

- (b) will materialize only when universities are to develop strong areas of expertise and specialization
- (c) will not materialize till such time the universities develop strong areas of expertise and specialization
- (d) will materialize until such time as the universities develop strong areas of expertise and specialization
7. Of all the centuries that came before, perhaps in all of them combined, for good and for evil.
- (a) in the last hundred years the human race never matched what it accomplished
- (b) the human race never matched what it accomplished in the last hundred years
- (c) the human race never matched in the last hundred years what it accomplished
- (d) the human race in the last hundred years never matched what it accomplished
8. Freedom for farmers to sell their produce at a place of their choice, cutting down the cost of procurement for agro-processing activity.
- (a) will certainly boost flexibility in production and integrating the farm sector with industry
- (b) while boosting flexibility in production and integrating this farm sector with industry
- (c) while boosting flexibility in production and integration of the farm sector with industry
- (d) will certainly boost flexibility in production and integration of the farm sector with industry
- Directions (9 to 18): In each of the following questions, there are sentences that form a paragraph. Identify the sentence(s) or part(s) of sentence(s) that is/are correct in terms of grammar and usage (including spelling, punctuation and logical consistency). Then choose the most appropriate option.
9. A. Washington currently reverberates (be repeated several times as an echo.) in voices crying
- B. for drastic reduction and even wholesale dismemberment (the action of partitioning or dividing up a territory or organization.) of America's spy agencies. C. But as with defense spending generally
- D. most of the demands for crash cuts reflect short range political pressures
- E. rather than any grand global strategy or reconceptualization of intelligence as such.
- (a) C and E (b) B and D
- (c) Only D (d) D and E
10. A. A new company hopes drivers will kick the oil habits (stop engaging in a habitual practice.)
- B. by brewing ethanol at home
- C. that won't spike food prices.
- D. E-fuel corp unveiled on Friday, the 'Micro-fueler,'
- E. touting it as the world's first machine that allows house owners to make their own ethanol and pump the brew directly into their cars.
- (a) A and B (b) C and D
- (c) A, B and E (d) B, C and D
11. A. The literature of African exploration and conquest is so vast and varied
- B. as those processes themselves.
- C. Yet with few outstanding exceptions, the records are built uniquely to a single domination attitude.
- D. They are the journals of men
- E. who look at Africa resolutely from the outside.
- (a) B, C and E (b) B and D
- (c) B, D and E (d) A and E
12. A. One should not pretend that models for a harmonious world order are ready on hand
- B. and it would be equally disingenuous to suppose that ideas
- C. of peace and community has much of a chance
- D. when power is moved to action
- E. by aggressive perceptions of 'vital national interest'.
- (a) A and B (b) B and D
- (c) B and E (d) C and D
13. A. Alarmed with the runaway inflation which has been surging
- B. mainly on account of soaring food prices
- C. the government on Friday announced import duty exemption for rice
- D. while slashing of the levy of a number of edible oils
- E. to not only hold the price line but also ensure that inflation is not imported into the country.
- (a) A and B (b) B, C and E
- (c) A, C and D (d) A, C and E
14. A. Her body bent almost 90 degrees, nonagenarian llama
- B. trekked a long distance at her age
- C. with the help of two sticks
- D. braved the scorching sun to exercise her franchise.
- E. As ill luck would have had it, she had to return home for want of an ID card.
- (a) B, D and E (b) A, D and C
- (c) A and C (d) A and E
15. A. Hidden cameras in the jungles of Indonesia's Java Island
- B. have captured rare footages of the world's most threatened rhino,
- C. boosting efforts to save it from extinction.
- D. This will help conservationists fighting to save the species
- E. which number only around 60 in the wild by giving new information.
- (a) A and E (b) A, B and C
- (c) A, C and D (d) D and E
16. A. Rates of social mobility may be computed either within the life span of man
- B. Or as is more common between generations of fathers and sons.
- C. Sociologists long entertained the belief, without systematically examining the data
- D. That certain societies such as India had highly closed systems of stratification,

- E. That there is little upward mobility, almost all sons ended up in precisely the same strata their fathers had occupied.
 (a) A and E (b) C and D
 (c) B and C (d) C and E
17. A. Dr Craig Venter, the man who first sequenced
 B. The entire genome of a living creature (a bacterium)
 C. And then went on to running a private enterprise rival
 D. To the publicly funded Human Genome Project
 E. Has reinvented him again.
 (a) Only E (b) C, D and E
 (c) A, B and D (d) A and B
18. A. For the wealthy nations and in particular the top 20 per cent of the worlds' population
 B. who continue to enjoy the many fruit dished up by the capitalistic way of life,
 C. the consumption of goods is reaching the point of near satiation.
 D. There is so much psychic value only one can get out of having two or three automobiles,
 E. a half dozen televisions and appliances of every sorts servicing every possible need and desire.
 (a) Only C (b) B and C
 (c) C and D (d) Only E

Direction (19 to 20) : In each of the questions below, four words are given Choose the option that gives the correct combination of words that are synonyms/antonyms

19. 1. Sturdy 2. ludicrous
 3. meagre 4. paltry
 (a) 1 and 3 (b) 2 and 3
 (c) 1 and 4 (d) 2 and 4
20. 1. Alleviate 2. Inundate
 3. Alluring 4. Repulsive
 (a) 1 and 3 (b) 2 and 4
 (c) 1 and 2 (d) 3 and 4
 (e) 2 and 3

Directions (21 to 25) : Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow We're all a lot more than we appear to be at work We have other dimensions that are invisible to our companies, supervisors, direct reports, and most of our colleagues, and those invisible dimensions have a deep impact on our work A study of dual-earner couples shows that people put more time in at work when their intimate relationships are going well, because the absence of drama at home gives them greater emotional, cognitive, and physical vigour to bring to the workplace. Another study shows that spouses personalities affect employees work outcomes - incomes, promotions, and so on Both studies are reminders that each individual bent over each task in the office is connected to. and the product of. a social and familial context that matters a lot, and we should all be paying more attention to those contexts. The personality data covered in these studies are known as the 'big five' dimensions-extroversion, agreeableness. neuroticism. conscientiousness, and openness The researchers found that the only spousal trait that was important to an employees work outcomes was conscientiousness, which turns out to predict employee income, number of promotions, and job satisfaction, regardless of gender.

First, conscientious spouses handle a lot of household tasks, freeing employees to concentrate on work Second, conscientious spouses make employees feel more satisfied in their marriages Third, employees tend to emulate their conscientious spouses diligent habits.

This doesn't mean your success depends on your being in a relationship There are plenty of single people who shine at work, and there are plenty of effective business leaders who are unattached In fact, research suggests that in certain circumstances, being single can help CEOs run their companies firms led by unmarried chiefs invest more aggressively and take greater risks than other firms But successful people often turn out to have strong marital relationships When you re m a relationship, you re no longer just two individuals, you re this entity The more solid the entity, the greater your advantage.

But what isn't obvious is the extent to which so many people are parts of teams, in a sense - two-person teams that are based outside the office Any particular colleague or boss or direct report might be supported by a truly conscientious spouse, someone who willingly - even joyfully - takes care of details that would otherwise become headaches and interfere with work For that matter, any particular colleague or boss or report might be hampered by a spousal relationship that s a couple of standard deviations below the mean, as they say.

Maybe you don t agree that your company should get involved m trying to improve your spousal relationship But there are things you can do on your own You can support your spouse in supporting you If you depend on his or her reliability, diligence, and goal orientation, don t take those traits for granted Maybe you've been standing heroically at the bow for so long that you ve forgotten how much effort it takes to row So. sit down and row for a while.

And while you re rowing, how about suggesting that your spouse get up and stand heroically in the bow for a change? Emulate his or her conscientiousness Really put your back into it You may find that your conscientious spouse has a compelling vision of his or her own that will take you into unexpected places.

21. Which of the following statements can be inferred from the passage?
- The author believes that only married people can have strong and successful careers.
 - The author believes that single people face greater trouble in managing career threats, as they do not have as much support as married people do.
 - The author believes that many successful people have good, strong marriages.
- (a) Only 1 (b) Only 2

- (c) Only 3
(e) All the three
22. According to the passage, which of the following is true of conscientious spouses?
1. They take care of household tasks and other details, reducing one's burden.
 2. They inspire one to learn from and follow their own example.
 3. They try to resolve issues soon so that there is less stress in the relationship.
- (a) Only 1
(c) Only 3
(e) All the three
23. What does the author mean when he says, "Maybe you've been standing heroically at the bow for so long that you've forgotten how much effort it takes to row?"
- (a) The author is imploring people to not take the conscientiousness of their spouse for granted, and to appreciate what they do for the marriage.
 - (b) The author is imploring people to be more conscientious instead of simply depending on their spouses.
 - (c) The author is imploring people to take up household tasks for a change and let their spouse earn bread for the house.
 - (d) All of the above
 - (e) Both A and B
24. Which of the following best describes the tone of the passage?
- (a) Witty
 - (b) Solemn
 - (c) Bitter
 - (d) Introspective
 - (e) Conversational
25. Which of the following best sums up the main idea of the passage?
- (a) Is marriage helpful for career or not
 - (b) The challenges of today's professional world
 - (c) How to achieve success
 - (d) How your spouse can make you successful
 - (e) The role of conscientiousness of your spouse on your career
26. What is the primary purpose of the last paragraph?
- (a) To conclude the topic on an optimistic note expressing hope in the future possibilities
 - (b) To sum up the main idea of the passage, and give advice to the readers.
 - (c) To end with an example of personalities who became successful with the help of their spouses.
 - (d) All of the above
 - (e) Both A and B
27. And while you're rowing, how about suggesting that your spouse get up and stand heroically in the bow for a change? Emulate his or her conscientiousness. Really put your back into it. You may find that your conscientious spouse has a compelling vision of his or her own that will take you into unexpected places. The word vigour' as used in the passage, is closest in meaning to:
- (a) enthusiasm
 - (b) seriousness
 - (c) consistency
 - (d) lethargy
 - (e) strength
28. The word diligent as used in the passage, is closest in meaning to
- (a) contingent
 - (b) industrious
 - (c) eminent
 - (d) intent
 - (e) studious
29. The word 'hampered' as used in the passage, is closest in meaning to
- (a) stomped
 - (b) pestered
 - (c) impeded
 - (d) frustrated
 - (e) lampooned
30. The word 'emulate' as used in the passage, is closest in meaning to :
- (a) inundate
 - (b) follow
 - (c) enunciate
 - (d) instigate
 - (e) commence